Cupcakes and cookies help dreams come true

BUDDING bakers have been whipping up something sweet for charity. Staff from Kirton Healthcare, Haverhill, donned their aprons to raise as much as possible for the Make-A-Wish Foundation. The charity's new fundraiser, Bake-A-Wish, is encouraging people across the country to bake their favourite treats for a sale.

The money raised will be used to grant children and young people with life-threatening conditions wishes. David Payne, SensoryPlus product manager at Kirton Healthcare, said that the company already worked closely with the charity. Kirton is sometimes contacted to provide specialist sensory equipment for a child, in line with a wish. Mr Payne said: "This was very much done by our team – they wanted to do something they enjoyed doing and raise money for charity. I am thrilled they were willing to do it." The bake sale raised £220. Beautiful Tiers in Haverhill also donated a cake to be won on the day. Visit make-a-wish.org/bake for more information, recipes and tips on setting up your own sale.

What is a Lasting Power of Attorney?

A Lasting Power of Attorney (LPA) gives another individual the legal authority to look after specific aspects of your affairs. There are two types of LPA:

1. Health and Welfare- This allows you to choose a person (or persons) to make decisions about things like your daily routine and medical care.

2. Property and Financial Affairs- This allows you to choose a person (or persons) to make decisions about money and property such as paying bills or selling your home.

Why should I make an LPA?

As people may become incapacitated through accident or illness, we would recommend putting in place an LPA at the earliest opportunity. If you do not have an LPA and later become mentally incapacitated, relatives may face delays and expense applying to the Court of Protection to take control of your finances.

Man, 94, charged with sex offences

A MAN in his nineties has appeared in crown court charged with historic sex offences against a young girl. Frederick Smith, of Camps Road, Haverhill, appeared at Ipswich Crown Court on Tuesday.

The 94-year-old, who spoke

only to confirm his name, is accused of four counts of indecent assault on a girl under 14 and one count of gross indecency with a girl under 14.

All of the offences relate to the same girl, and they are alleged to have taken place between 1972 and 1982 in Haverhill. Judge David Goodin told Smith that he will return to court on June 6. Smith will continue to be granted bail until his next court appearance.

Minister's bail is extended

A CHURCH minister arrested on suspicion of fraud by false representation has had his bail extended.

Rev Canon Ian Finn, of St Mary's Church, Haverhill, was arrested on March 4 and was due to answer bail on April 2.

A police spokesman confirmed that this bail has now been extended until May 14 at midday.

Mr Finn took extended leave in February to assist with an investigation by the church into alleged "financial irregularities".

Following his arrest, he was suspended by the Church of England pending the outcome of the police investigation.

Young woman robbed in broad daylight

A WOMAN in her 20s was robbed in the middle of the day in Haverhill town centre. The incident happened on Monday between 2.30pm and 2.45pm in an alleyway just off the town's High Street.

A 25-year-old woman and a 38-year-old man were arrested following the robbery but later released without charge.

The victim was assisted at the scene by members of the public, and police are keen to hear from anyone with information.

Witnesses and those who assisted at the scene should contact PC Chris Button at Bury St Edmunds on 101.

Alternatively call Crime-stoppers on 0800 555 111.

Petition calls for a better deal

ALMOST 2,000 people have pledged their support to a petition calling for a fair deal for Haverhill.

The petition is aimed at St Edmundsbury Borough Council, and is asking for the town's share of the Council Tax Support Grant to be passed on instead of retained.

This year alone, Haverhill Town Council had to save £32,000. Over the next four financial years an estimated £129,000 will be lost.

Signatures online and on paper are almost at 2,000. Once a minimum of 2,500 have been collected the petition can be debated at a borough council meeting.

The petition organiser will be given five minutes at the most to present the argument – councillors will then have 20 minutes to discuss.

The petition was created by the Haverhill and Kedington Labour Group.

Visit is.gd/haverhillpetition to sign online. You can sign in person at the Arts Centre.

TOP BRASS: The school orchestra has 40 members

Young musicians showcase their talents at school concert

MORE than 50 children showcased their musical talents at an annual school concert.

Pupils from St Felix Primary School, Haverhill, treated guests to a range of performances from groups, soloists, who have been preparing for their grade exams, and the full school orchestra – which has 40 members.

The event also included slots from the St Felix jazz band and rock band.

The concert was the perfect opportunity for the performers to show what they have been working on in learning to play an instrument.

Theresa Jones, the school's music teacher, said: "Music is great for self esteem, confidence and aids all aspects of children's development, academically and socially.

"At school we try to give our children as many opportunities as we can and this includes the chance for every one of our pupils to learn an instrument.

"The concert was a great success and we are extremely proud of all of the children who took part."

Man faces jail over cannabis smuggle

A DRUG smuggler could be jailed for taking cannabis into a prison.

Virgilio Melim, 47, pleaded guilty to two offences of taking a prohibited article into a prison at Ipswich Crown Court.

The court heard that Melim, of Clipstone Street, London, had been caught with a quantity of cannabis in January at Highpoint Prison, Stradishall.

A pre-sentence report is currently being prepared, prior to Melim's sentencing at a later date. Judge David Goodin told the 47-year-old that he would be granted bail until he returns to court to be sentenced this month.

He said: "You must understand that taking drugs into prison is ordinarily followed by custody."

"It is very much in the mind of the court."

Melim appeared in court on March 21.

Former school caretaker denies assaulting girls

A FORMER school caretaker has pleaded not guilty to 17 sex offences against two young girls.

Robert Bambury, 75, is accused of offences said to have taken place in the 1970s and 1980s.

Bambury, now of Wright Close, Stowmarket, is accused of committing some of the offences at Clare Middle School, where he was caretaker. The court heard that Bambury is alleged to have started a sexual relationship with a 13-year-old girl, which went on for four years.

Andrew Thompson, prosecuting at Ipswich Crown Court, said the girl was unaware that similar allegations had been made against the pensioner by another person.

In a recorded interview shown to the jury, the girl said that Bambury had indecently touched her on numerous occasions at the school and at his house.

At the time, she believed she was in love with Bambury, she said, but their relationship ended when she found a boyfriend nearer her own age.

She said Bambury had "stolen part of my childhood".

The second victim, who has said she was sexually assaulted and eventually raped by Bambury over a period of seven years, decided to go to the police after a conversation with her daughter, the court was told.

Mr Thompson said: "She had until then locked away the memories and had not thought about them for years. She had perhaps believed, naively, that this was well in the past and would stay there."

Bambury has pleaded not guilty to nine offences of indecent assault against one victim, and four offences of indecent assault, two of gross indecency with a child, one of inciting gross indecency with a female aged over 16 and one of rape with a second victim.

On arrest, Bambury is said to have told police that he did not understand why the girls had made the allegations up.

The trial continues.

Two teenagers approached by car driver

TWO 13-year-olds were approached by a man in a car on Saturday in Clare.

The two teenagers were walking along Bridewell Street between 4pm and 4.30pm when a man in a medium-sized, four-door black car pulled into a layby near them.

The driver then opened the door and asked them to get in.

After the teenagers refused, the man drove off in the direction of the centre of Clare.

The man is described as white, and aged between 60 and 70 years old.

He had short grey hair to the back and sides, and was balding on top.

How Liam will help Middle East conflict

DEBRA FOX

A GRADUATE is travelling to Israel as part of an international group aiming to ease conflict.

Liam Hilton, of Gorton Road, Haverhill, is travelling to Jerusalem today, where he will support Palestinian and Israeli peace activists for more than four months.

The 26-year-old will work overseas until August.

Liam, who attended Burton End Primary, Chalkstone Middle and Samuel Ward Upper schools, will document human rights violations during his time abroad.

It is hoped his reports will raise awareness of how the current conflict is impacting those living in affected areas.

He said: "I would be lying if I said it was pure excitement – I am very daunted by it all.

WORKING TOGETHER: Liam Hilton

"It's very challenging and it's something I've never done before – it's a programme open to anyone who wants to know more and work to help."

Liam and the rest of his group will also be a non-violent presence in the face of conflict, able to mediate between activists if needed.

Other activities will include accompanying Palestinian children through Israeli checkpoints on their way to school, teaching English to people in refugee camps and monitoring demonstrations.

Liam studied sociology and gender studies at Sussex University before going on to gain a Masters in gender development and globalisation at the London School of Economics.

He took his A-levels at Long Road Sixth Form College, Cambridge.

"My personal interests and passions have always been with peace and justice," he said. "This is a very important role, and it's important the people get to hear the true stories of what's going on there."

Liam, who will be based in Bethlehem during his stay, is planning to send fortnightly newsletters about his time overseas and also set up a blog.

When he returns, the 26-year-old will also give up to 10 presentations on his time in the conflict, and what he discovered.

Some of these are due to take place locally, he said.

Liam's work is part of the Ecumenical Accompaniment Programme in Palestine and Israel (EAPPI). The programme was designed by the World Council of Churches after a call to the international community for help. EAPPI is implemented by Quaker Peace & Social Witness.

Non-runner Debra Fox gets off the sofa & in training for Haverhill's inaugural 10K

AFTER a week off work, I'm really starting to feel the pressure.

I've had a great ten days visiting my family in Newcastle and taking a trip to London with my boyfriend – but as I'm sure you can imagine, this did not involve much running (a lot of walking, though).

Hand on heart, I laced up my trainers and took to the pavement twice – but I know I still need to up my game if I'm going to tackle the 10K.

Now that the nights are lighter and the weather warmer – just – I think I'll find a swift jog after a long day in the office less of a chore.

I'm starting to feel a difference in my stamina. It's a slight one, sure, but for me this is a huge development.

My sole aim still is to complete the route – but perhaps in a week or two I'll feel speedy enough to set myself a target. Three hours seems about right.

The hardest part this week? Jogging home via Ely Market Place – on market day, no less – and resisting the cheese stall, pie man and doughnut van.

I've changed.

Thanks to all of you who've emailed in your support so far. I still have five full weeks to train, so please keep them coming.

The request for an end-of-the-line burger still stands too, in case anyone's wondering. Email your tips to debra.fox@cambridge-news.co.uk.

Teachers are right to fight for these changes

Haverhill schools may not have been closed by the teachers' strike last week, but readers should be in no doubt that teachers wholeheartedly support their unions' aims.

These are:

1. To ensure that every classroom has a qualified teacher;
2. That councils should be allowed to open new schools where they are needed;
3. That changes to the curriculum and exams should be positive and planned, enabling the development of an exciting and inspiring curriculum that equips young people for the modern world;
4. That there are enough new teachers. Two in every five teachers leave the profession five years after qualifying because of workload and conditions – do we really want our young people to be taught by people who work an average 60-hour week? (Remember that 'holidays' also have to be used for planning, data, preparation and other paperwork.)
5. That schools should be properly funded and working together. Teaching unions also recognise the unfair pay restraints and changes to the retirement age faced by other workers and support the need for all to be treated fairly.

We regularly clear up mess left by others

REGARDING the front page article about dog fouling... We watched the rubbish sit on the field for a week and decided (as we often do) that nobody will tidy up the mess. It appears that neither the council nor the rugby club feel responsible.

On the field adjacent to Chivers Road I found myself tidying up after an impromptu firework display from the local teenagers which involved picking up over 40 dead fireworks and placing them in a carrier bag and placing the carrier bags at the foot of the dog bin.

Although the dog bin was emptied the firework bag was left there for a further two weeks.

I walk my dog on the three fields around the rugby club and meet most of the other dog walkers.

more waste than they leave, and that we would welcome the fining of the "idiots". I have seen foxes at night on the fields and it should not be forgotten that they and other wildlife need to leave their natural waste somewhere. This sometimes may be mistaken for poor practice from dog walkers.

Will you open your garden for charity?

On 6th July 2014 an Open Garden event will be held in Haverhill to raise funds for St Nicholas Hospice.

We are looking for residents who would be willing to open their garden to the public from 11.00 – 3pm on this day and help us to raise funds for this essential charity.

The gardens will be entered into a competition with the first three winners awarded prizes.

We would also appreciate home-made cakes and potted/labelled cuttings/plants to sell on the day. Please contact me for further information or to volunteer to open your garden.

Lauren stages a showjumping event and fun day for charity

A HORSE rider from Haverhill is staging a showjumping event to raise the profile of a charity which supports people who are hypersensitive to pain.

Lauren Fair has a family member with Fibro, an illness characterised by chronic pain, fatigue and sleep disruption.

The 16-year-old, who is a student at Hills Road Sixth Form College in Cambridge, hopes to raise at least £1,000 through the competition and fun day at Prestige Equestrian Centre in Castle Camps on Sunday.

Lauren said: "I have a family member with the illness and I'm doing an A-level project and one of the options is to run an event.

"It's a small charity and I thought it would be really nice to raise some awareness for them, as well as some money."

She added: "You can get very achy, like when you have the flu, and there are lots of different conditions associated with it like sciatica, irritable bowel syndrome, a feeling that things are crawling over your skin and cognitive difficulties."

She thanked Prestige Staff Heidi Morris and Rhiannon Weir for helping her organise the event.

Park to help promote the region

PROSPECTIVE Chinese traders are to be taken on a video tour of Haverhill Research Park as part of an initiative to promote the east of England.

The park will be showcased to the Jiangsu Province in China as part of a promotional video, with filming going on at the park this week.

The park hopes to attract Chinese technology companies who are considering locations in the East of England.

Helen Chaplin, from the research park's marketing team, said: "We are delighted that the park will form part of the east of England promotion."

"We feel that Haverhill has a great deal to offer inward investors as does the whole region with its excellent road, rail and air communications, highly qualified population and great housing and educational facilities."

The initiative is being led by the international trade and development team at Essex County Council, with backing also coming from Norfolk and Suffolk County Councils.

Principal wins a leadership award

NATALIE ROBINSON AND DEBRA FOX

A HAVERHILL principal has been honoured for his work in education in Suffolk.

More than 800 nominations were received by judges for the first ever Raising the Bar awards, designed to recognise education champions across Suffolk.

Howard Lay, executive principal of Samuel Ward Academy, Haverhill, was presented with the Educational Leader of the Year award, chosen because of his "visionary and long standing leadership of high achieving schools".

Samuel Ward, which was rated as outstanding by Ofsted in its last inspection, has recently become a sponsor for Newmarket College in a bid to transform the school.

He said: "I am really pleased. Obviously it's not really about me, it's about the success the school has had and the community it is part of and recognition of the high level of outstanding education the school is delivering.

"I am really pleased to receive the award, not just for me but for the school."

The partnership with Newmarket College is developing in a "positive way", Mr Lay added, and helps to demonstrate that the academy will provide "effective leadership".

Cllr Lisa Chambers, cabinet member for education, skills and young people, said: "The winners deserve every bit of credit for their work and I hope that by celebrating their success, we will raise awareness of the impact of these achievements and see best practice adopted more widely.

"These individuals and groups have all made a significant contribution to delivering high quality education in our county, are raising standards and aspiration and should receive recognition for it."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Man charged with making indecent images of children

A MAN in his forties from Haverhill has been charged with four counts of making indecent images of children. Anthony Johnson, 41, of Chestnut Close, Haverhill, will appear at West Suffolk Magistrates Court on April 8. The 41-year-old was arrested after a National Crime Agency (NCA) operation across Bedfordshire, Cambridgeshire, Hertfordshire, Norfolk and Suffolk. This took place in October 2013, and a number of people were arrested on suspicion of being involved in the distribution of indecent images of children.

How green economy will grow

A NEW SERVICE to help Suffolk businesses with green initiatives has been launched.

More than 60 people attended a launch event last month to hear how funding will be used to support low carbon investment in Suffolk.

Businesses can now learn about energy saving opportunities, and have access to a range of green finance and grant schemes. Visit greensuffolk.org/scl for more information and to register for the programme.

How landlords can help you

A CONFERENCE educated landlords on how to help prospective tenants.

The West Suffolk Lettings Partnership held an event on March 28 for private landlords offering tenancies to those on housing registers, including those of St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

The Partnership offers landlords access to potential tenants, financial support for tenancies and the help of a dedicated letting coordinator.

Evening of pampering for charity

AN EVENING of pampering has raised more than £600 for Cancer Research UK.

The team at DNa Hair Studios in Haverhill invited residents from across town into the salon for a special charity event.

On March 28 guests could treat themselves to treatments, styles and manicures all in aid of the cancer charity - and even take home a raffle prize, donated by a local business.

Aimee Lee, assistant manager, said: "It was a fantastic night and it was really busy."

"We probably had between 30 and 40 people - it was absolutely manic with people everywhere." Aimee and the team were only expecting to raise around £300 at best - so were bowled over by the total.

The event was organised in support of mum-of-three Keeley Skipp, who has overcome cervical cancer.

She and her friends are running the Race for Life in June to raise more funds and awareness - and a quiz night is taking place The Woolpack on April 13 from 7pm until 10pm.

How's life in the army

YOUNG people from Haverhill found out more about life in the British Army.

Sgt Mark Graham visited Haverhill Arts Centre last month for a session on career opportunities including engineering, police work, driving and catering.

Around 30 young people, between 15 and 24-years-old, attended the event.

Karen Chapple, ONE Haverhill's Youth Skills Manager, said: "It was great to see such enthusiasm from some young people that were obviously wanting to take this career path. We hope to repeat this event in the future along side other career events."

One of the aims of Haverhill's community budget was to create more opportunities for the town's young people.

Girls get ready for big night out

DEBRA FOX

WOMEN across the county are preparing to don their finest pyjamas in the name of charity.

St Nicholas Hospice Care's annual Girls Night Out will take place in September.

Last year more than 1,000 women took to the streets for the moonlight walk and raised £115,000 for the hospice.

Amongst them was Denise Griffin, of Haverhill, who was pushed around the course in a wheelchair by hospice staff Angela Jiggins and Gill Austin.

Denise, 58, has secondary bone cancer and is a regular visitor to the hospice. There, she receives acupuncture treatments and reflexology.

She said: "The reflexology is good for when you're getting stressed with your daily life. It rebalances you so you feel more relaxed. The acupuncture is good for pain relief."

"Girls Night Out is for a great cause. It raises awareness of what the hospice does, as well as raising funds. It raises money, which is what it's all about."

Girls Night Out is on September 13 in Bury St Edmunds - and organisers are hoping for more participants than ever before.

The hospice will also soon open a new outreach centre in Haverhill - the first of its kind.

The opening means that patients requiring support will no longer have to travel to the main hospice site in Bury St Edmunds.

Jenny Baskett, Hospice Events and Challenges Fundraiser, said: "We are aiming to make this year's walk even bigger and better."

"To do that, we are appealing for women to sign up for the walk, bring their friends and family and, of course, be ready for a party."

"All the funds raised by Girls Night Out will help to support patients and families in West Suffolk and Thetford."

Registration for Girls Night Out is now open, with an early sign-up offer of £10 per person running until May 31. Registration will cost £15 from June 1.

For more information to sign up visit stnicholasospicecare.org.uk. You can also pick up a form from a St Nicholas shop.

NEWS IN BRIEF

We're going on an egg hunt ...

SCOUTS and guides are taking part in an Easter egg hunt to raise money for a new headquarters.

The event is taking place at the current scout and guide HQ in Colne Valley Road, Haverhill. Children of all ages are welcome to take part in the hunt, which is on April 13 between 11am and 1pm.

It costs £3 for the first child and £2 for each subsequent child - and there will be refreshments, bacon rolls and raffle tickets available on the day.

Each participant will also get an Easter egg.

Society prepares for concert

MEMBERS of Haverhill Choral Society are preparing for their next performance.

The group will perform Brahms Requiem at Haverhill's Old Independent Church on April 12 from 7.30pm.

The concert will be performed by almost 50 members, and supported by some local musicians including Dannielle Perrett on Harp. It is being directed by Jane Wright.

Tickets, which include refreshments, cost £8. They will be available for purchase on the night or in advance by calling 01440 761613.

Last chance to see tribute

POP lovers can still catch a One Direction tribute act live on stage next month.

Only 1 Direction have sold out their evening performance at Haverhill Arts Centre on April 13 - but there are still a few tickets left for the matinee on the same day.

The boys, who have played concerts worldwide, entertained local crowds last year during a series of market place concerts.

At their Arts Centre shows they will be supported by Jessie Jay - a tribute to the popular star.

Call the box office on 01440 714140.

GRAND OPENING: Dr Shashkov and Cllr André at the opening on March 26.

New technology comes to town

AN INNOVATIVE production line, the first of its kind, has been opened for business in Haverhill.

Cllr Roger André, town mayor, launched the production line at Cambridge Nanotherm, on Homefield Road.

The line is set to be the first of many at the company, which manufactures new technology for electronic applications.

Dr Pavel Shashkov, founding director, said the technology is "set to change the way we think about every day products."

Cllr André said: "Nanotherm is bringing high technology employment to our community and investing in the future of our local workforce."

"As our community expands opportunities for employment in skilled, technology related production promises growth for our entire community. I particularly value the confidence in our community demonstrated by this welcome investment in manufacturing capacity and our workforce."

New town clerk selected

HAVERHILL Town Council will welcome their new permanent town clerk in June.

Colin Poole, currently town clerk at Exmouth, Devon, has been chosen to replace Will Austin, who moved to Barnstaple last month.

Mr Poole applied for posts both in Exmouth and Haverhill in 2011 - alongside Mr Austin.

Now, the new clerk will swap Devon for Suffolk and return to his home county.

DEBRA FOX

He said: "People have often said we should swap. I am doubly thrilled to be at Haverhill."

"I am able to return permanently to Suffolk to be with my family and I am joining Haverhill at a really exciting time, with work on the new youth centre being something particularly close to my heart."

"There is clearly a sense of symmetry about Will and I returning to our home counties."

Mr Poole moved to Newton, Suffolk, in 1992 where he lives with his wife and two teenage children. The clerk's great-grandfather was born in Sudbury and he has "distant relations right across West Suffolk".

Cllr Roger André, town mayor, said: "From an exceptionally high quality field of candidates we were delighted to have attracted an extensively experienced and skilled town clerk."

"Colin is returning to his home county and has revealed a keen commitment to continuing the excellent service our community has come to expect of our town clerk. The succession of hugely competent and committed clerks will continue."

Bob Whittome is currently acting as locum town clerk. Mr Poole is scheduled to start on June 3.

Ex-Serviceman's Club ready for Easter

TUCKED away behind the High Street, in Quaker Lane, you might not have heard about Haverhill Ex-Serviceman's Club. But if you live in the town, enjoy a night out, and are looking for great fun events to entertain the whole family this Easter, then why not take a look?

You don't need to have served in the Armed Forces to join the club – everyone is more than welcome. And the benefits that you can get from an annual membership fee of just £10 are simply amazing.

On Easter Sunday, head over to the club for a fun-packed day. With a range of things laid on to keep the kids entertained – from a bouncy castle, prize games and a barbecue to the all-important Egg Hunt – you'll be guaranteed a great day, whatever the weather.

Like every such event that they arrange, it's all absolutely free for children of any adult club member. Members in the last year have reaped the benefit, with fun activities including a fireworks display, bouncy castle events throughout the year, and, perhaps the greatest bargain of all, tickets for Newmarket Races. Since these tickets would normally set you back £23 each, club members' annual fee of just £10 seems even more of a great deal.

Longstanding club member Martin Mansfield was certainly delighted that he'd joined. The lucky chap recently won the club's "three numbers lottery". The prize, which had rolled over for more than six months without being won, had built up to over £6,000; and he got the call saying that he'd bagged it all while enjoying a round of golf! Clearly something was in the air in Haverhill last month, since only a few weeks later another lucky member himself won again: this time taking home a £2,300 prize.

With live entertainment most Saturdays, and a variety of different teams to join from snooker to darts, the club bar is open from midday each day, closing at 11pm from Sunday to Thursday, and staying open until midnight on Fridays and 12.30 on Saturday. Now that spring is here, they have also spruced up their outdoor area: the biggest beer garden in town.

So for a fantastic choice of things to do, and a guaranteed fun time for grown-ups and kids alike, why not sign up to Haverhill Ex-Serviceman's Club in time for Easter. The club is on Quaker's Lane, Haverhill, and you can phone them on (01440) 702337, or visit their website at hesmc.co.uk for more information.

How I fought anorexia . .

BETH Hall appears to have it all. Blessed with head-turning looks and a personality that lights up the room, she's a delight. It's not hard to see why she's one of 12 finalists competing to be crowned Miss England 2014 – she's the quintessential beauty queen.

You'd think the 23-year-old would be brimming with confidence, but in fact, behind the smiling public face, nothing could be further from the truth.

Beth has been battling anorexia nervosa since the age of 16, and over the years has also suffered from depression and bulimia; every day she faces up to the demons which tell her she's worthless. "I'd look in the mirror and all I would see is a piggy. Every single time," she tells me when we meet at her Oakington home. "I would think: 'No wonder people bully me, there's nothing attractive there.'"

"Even now if people ever tell me I'm pretty, I don't understand it. I'm so negative around myself."

Beth is one of an estimated 1.6 million people in the UK affected by an eating disorder. At the height of her illness she weighed just under five stone and would go days without eating, living on cups of black coffee and orange squash.

In 2011 Beth was sectioned, and, after years spent in denial, she finally faced up to what this devastating illness had done to her. "When they told me my lowest weight it didn't register. At the time it was just a number; I still thought I was fat," remembers Beth. "I lost all empathy and emotion because of my illness and my whole personality changed. I became isolated,

From the grips of anorexia to budding beauty queen; Beth Hall tells LYDIA FALLON how she conquered a devastating eating disorder and why she is determined to help others do the same.

solitary and very aggressive. I was stand-offish and even more stubborn than usual. I just wasn't myself anymore, but I couldn't see it."

Gradually that changed, and to meet Beth today – bursting with health and energy – it's clear she is well on the road to recovery. Although the Anglia Ruskin student is quick to admit she has to take every day as it comes. "I still have monthly doctors' appointments and I have a very strict routine with my food which if I veer out of is when I tend to relapse. I still have a very negative feel towards carbs and try to avoid them where I can. I know what's good for me and what I can put up with eating every now and again, but I think the condition will always be there."

Beth hopes by sharing her story other sufferers will see that even during the darkest moments, there is always light at the end of the tunnel. "I am really hoping that others, who are either recovering or in that denial stage, will see that even though you feel pretty crap about yourself, there is always something positive – like the Miss England competition for me – to come out of it. Always," Beth says with a smile.

"When I'm walking around university I see some girls and I think: I remember being there; lonely, negative, unhappy. All you wanted was to be treated normally and have someone to vent to."

She pauses: "You think people are avoiding you like the plague, like you are contagious. You feel ugly and scary and like no one wants to know you because they feel so much pity. I remember what that's like and I want to help."

Beth believes her condition was most likely triggered by low self-confidence, a result of constant bullying in the school playground. "I used to get called chubby and ginger and everything like that, and when you're young you take it to heart and all I could think was 'Oh god, I'm so fat and ugly' and I always got hung up on it," she recalls.

By 16 she started restricting her food – secretly skipping a meal here and there and living off salads. In turn, the weight started dropping off. "It was easy to miss a meal, I used to tell myself 'You could do with losing some weight anyway Beth' so it was like positive encouragement. I saw losing weight as a good thing. People would say 'Wow you look so good, Beth' and of course I was like, you were the ones who bullied me at school and now I look really good."

Things were escalating at an alarming pace, and when Beth's mum Tanya was diagnosed with skin cancer, it got even worse. "You never think bad things are going to happen to you," remembers Beth. "My mum went into hospital and I basically had to take on the role of mum. I was looking after the whole house and it gave me the chance to forget food even more. I thought: 'Now I have an excuse to ignore food.'"

By the age of 19, Beth's weight was down to seven stone and she would often live off just a bag of cereal for the whole day. She started studying graphic design at Plymouth University but with no one there to look after her, the anorexia took over. "I only lasted three months because I became so underweight that I had to come home," Beth says. "I just gave up buying food – I couldn't be bothered. I would go like three days without food, and just live on coffee and squash."

"I think I felt so lonely; no one wanted to know me and I felt useless, completely useless. There was no one there to control me and I was losing control everywhere else, so I stuck to controlling my food."

Beth returned home for a weekend in October and the look on her family's face said it all. "My mum weighed me and I was about six stone. She told me to promise I wouldn't lose anymore, I said 'Yes, I promise' but at the time I couldn't see an issue with it," she says.

Over time Beth realised she wasn't coping and decided to leave university and move back home. But rather than help, the illness just spiralled even further out of control. "I was stuck at home with nothing to do and used to clean the whole house from top to bottom every day just to stop myself eating."

She continues: "The minute I sat down, the thoughts of food just got so bad. It would be like 'You're fat, you're useless, you're ugly, you don't need food, why are you thinking about food?' Food, food, food, food..."

At one point it got so bad Beth suffered an anxiety attack while travelling home on the bus. She was in complete turmoil. "All I was thinking about when I was on the bus was 'What shall I eat for dinner?' then 'No I won't eat that' and then 'Yes I will'. I'm just sat there with this conflict in my brain and I just had to get off the bus. It took over my whole life."

The situation soon came to a head in 2011 when Beth picked up a kidney infection and was immediately admitted to hospital. Now a shadow of her former self at just under five stone, it was tough and go whether she'd survive. "The nurse is trying to push on my bladder and says she can feel all my internal organs I was that thin," recalls Beth.

"I'd been seeing a psychiatrist before that to help, but was just doing it for the sake of it. I'd be clock watching the whole time, waiting for it to be over. I was in complete denial until I was actually in the hospital."

Finally realising she desperately needed help, Beth took the incredibly brave decision to admit herself to the eating disorder ward at Addenbrooke's. "I think I just realised it was make or break," she says matter-of-factly.

It was a heart-breaking four months, full of ups and downs ("I spent my 21st on the ward – it was the best birthday ever," she laughs sarcastically), but in her heart Beth knew it was the only answer. "They give you therapy classes, art classes, interactive classes and body dysmorphia classes," explains Beth, revealing what life was like on the ward. "They want you to express your own target weight and if you meet that they encourage you to go a bit further. They start you off with the barest minimum meal plans and then up it a little bit every time, hoping that by the time you leave you'll have a meal plan which will set you up for the outside world."

What was the hardest part? "I think spending so much time in your own company," Beth muses. "At the beginning I would think all the nurses were in cahoots against me and just wanted me to be fat. What they really wanted was the best for us but you just don't see it at the time."

At the end of the four months, Beth admits she was 'in a much better place' and even felt well enough to return home, first as a day patient and then eventually as an outpatient. She started working part time at Hotel Chocolat and enrolled on a graphic design course at Anglia Ruskin University. Things looked like they were finally on the up, but last year, Beth suffered a devastating relapse. "I hated myself and became so low that I relapsed into bulimia. When I was anorexic the thought of bulimia was disgusting to me but then becoming a healthier weight and thinking negatively towards anorexia, it suddenly became a whole new world."

Determined to not let the condition take hold again, Beth went back to therapy and a year on is feeling happier, healthier and hopeful for the future, including that very exciting Miss England competition. "I got scouted in December at the Birmingham Clothes Show," Beth smiles, revealing how the competition came about. "I thought I'd enter as a laugh and didn't think I'd get any further but then I found out I'd got through to the heat. I was completely shell-shocked."

Beth is one of 12 finalists competing in the heat qualifier, and if she is voted in the top three by public vote, she will secure a place in the Miss England semi-final in May.

Given where she was only three years ago, it's truly amazing to think how far she has come. "It really scares me to think how I was."

"My mum said to me, do I ever look back and think how did my weight get that low? But I don't look back; I try not to think about it."

"It was such a negative time in my life and I never want to be back there again."

Not for the faint hearted...

MYSTERIES and murders will be discussed in a show at Haverhill Arts Theatre later this month.

20 of the "world's worst serial killers" will be highlighted by Trevor Marriott, a retired murder squad detective who has just finished investigating Jack the Ripper.

The show, described as "not for the squeamish or faint hearted", is set to include photos and videos of the murder scenes and interviews with the killers.

Mr Marriott said: "I not only portray the killers as the monsters whom they are, but I go to great lengths to show the errors and bad decisions made by law enforcement officers in allowing some of these killers to roam free to kill again before finally being captured."

The World's Worst Serial Killer show will be at Haverhill Arts Theatre on April 24.

Town's 10k and half marathon get licences

DEBRA FOX

INAUGURAL races taking place in Haverhill this spring have been granted full licences by UK Athletics.

The Haverhalf and Haver10 races are on May 11. They will both set off and finish at the Recreation Ground.

Both courses have been measured by an independent body, and issued with certificates to prove they are correct.

The races will also have an independent adjudicator and timekeepers.

Jack Tappin, race director, said: "The issuing of these licences is not only prestigious but also a guarantee to runners that we are putting on a quality event as we need to meet UKA's standards. "Runners can rest assured that this will be a well organised and executed event and also know that they're running the correct distances.

"Hopefully now more people will sign up and we'll have more than 300 people along to enjoy these flagship athletics events in Haverhill."

Parts of each race route have now been modified from the initial plan.

Haverhalf now includes loops of Roman Way and Shetland Road - runners will also continue along Chalkstone Way, to Millfields Way on a footpath before the New Croft.

Parts of both races will be run on the railway line, and Haverhalf will take runners across fields between Great Wrattling and Chapple Drive.

All finishers will get a goody bag and medal - with trophies and other goodies up for grabs for category winners.

Mr Tappin confirmed that more than 200 people have entered across both races.

All money raised is going towards St Nicholas Hospice Care.

Visit entrycentral.com/haverhalf, runbritain.com/races or pick up a form from Haverhill Arts Centre to enter.

Haverhalf is £16 and Haver10 is £12. Entry is £2 less for affiliated club runners, and £2 more on the day.

For more information email haverhalf@gmail.com, tweet @haverhalf or search Haverhalf on Facebook.

Route 66 pleased with business in first week

THE owner of a recently-opened American diner says he is pleased with how it has done in its opening week.

Route 66 has welcomed around 500 customers since it opened in Haverhill last Thursday.

The restaurant serves American dishes.

Owner Sam Clark said: "We had some teething problems in the first few days, but only due to the sheer volume of customers. We had a busy start, but we're settled in and we've had a good start."

The diner is set to hold an official grand opening in the coming weeks which will feature music and dancing.

It took over the building which used to belong to the YMCA on the High Street.

Mr Clark added: "Thanks to everyone who has been patient with us. It's a pleasure to be open."

It's full speed ahead for Days Inn

IT has been an action-packed start to 2014 for Days Inn Haverhill. The hotel is experiencing record levels of bookings for functions and conferences.

General manager Donna Revell comments: "At the end of 2013 the decision was taken to withdraw from an arrangement with local authorities to provide emergency housing. We wanted to increase the use of our conference facilities and focus on the development of the corporate business. This strategy has paid off and it's a real pleasure to be welcoming business guests back to the hotel and to have them using the facilities once again."

Days Inn recently hosted a wine and cheese tasting event as a thank you to their corporate guests. The evening was such a success that there are plans to hold another one in the summer.

Aside from the corporate bookings for conferences, training sessions, seminars and workshops the Days Inn is also attracting family functions and weddings. Last week there was a 40th birthday party, a 50th birthday celebration is booked this Saturday and a full wedding ceremony takes place next weekend. A civil licence means that couples can be married at the hotel as well as having their wedding breakfast and evening reception there.

Donna comments: "We love being a part of the local community and are delighted that people choose to use the hotel for their celebrations and special events. The team endeavour to ensure that positive memories will be associated with the functions hosted at the hotel."

Local people and businesses are welcome to use the Kingfisher Coffee Lounge and Bar to socialise in relaxed and comfortable surroundings or to hold a business meeting. With the exciting news that Superfast Broadband, with capacity of up to 100mb, is currently being installed and will be offered free of charge for hotel guests and people using the facilities, it certainly is full speed ahead for Days Inn Haverhill.

Charity event raises funds to save lives

A CHARITY ball has paid for three new defibrillator units in rural areas.

Units have now been installed in Cornish Hall End, Kemp Road, Finchingfield and Stephen Marshall Avenue, Finchingfield.

The event was held by Kelly Bishop and her team at The Horse and Groom, Cornish Hall End.

Six thousand pounds was raised. The defibrillators were bought from the Community Heart Beat Trust and cost £2,000 each.

Three further units are going to be installed in Great Sampford, Stambourne and Weathersfield.

A training awareness event on how to use a defibrillator properly is being held at Cornish End Village Hall.

The sessions are taking place on April 24 at 3pm and 7pm.

Residents are being encouraged to attend to improve their skills, and help to save lives.

A defibrillator sends an electric current through the chest and aims to shock a person's heart back into a normal rhythm following a cardiac arrest.

Two vehicles crash at rural crossroads

DEBRA FOX

CONCERNED motorists pulled over to offer their assistance after two cars collided on a rural road on Friday.

A Range Rover and a VW Golf were involved in the incident at the West Wrattling Common crossroads shortly after 4pm.

A number of motorists stopped at the scene of the accident to offer their help while police and ambulance were called.

According to a passing driver, who did not want to be named, the Range Rover had reportedly just been picked up from the dealership and only had around 14 miles on it. It is believed that the car has been written off.

He said: "A lot of drivers pulled over and stopped but others just continued driving and sped through – some of the driving along that road was terrible."

A spokesman for the East of England Ambulance Service confirmed that a call was received shortly before 4.15pm and that an ambulance arrived 31 minutes later.

The spokesman said: "The ambulance crew assessed the patients that were there and found there were no injuries that needed hospital treatment. They were left in the care of the police."

A spokeswoman for Cambridgeshire Constabulary confirmed that the incident was a "damage only" road traffic collision including two vehicles. They too were called to the scene at 4.15pm.

Twenty-year-old Bradley Gamble and scooter rider Dean Cork were both killed at the junction in separate accidents last year.

Calls have been made previously for further road safety measures to be created at the junction.

ON THE ROAD: The shows will take place across Suffolk and Norfolk.

Business advice to hit the road

A RANGE of roadshows will visit locations across the county to provide business advice.

Haverhill will be one of the first locations to get a visit from a Business Roadshow, launched by the Business Shaper Group and New Anglia Local Enterprise Partnership (LEP).

The sessions, which will also call at Bury St Edmunds and Lowestoft, will highlight what is available to business owners to help them grow.

This includes grants, funding opportunities, free business support and training.

Jason Middleton, Funding and Projects Manager at New Anglia LEP said: "There's a huge amount of free advice and support available to businesses but it is often hard to find."

"By working with Business

Shaper Group on this initiative, business owners can ensure that they are in the best possible position to grasp the opportunities as the country comes out of the recession."

The roadshow will visit Haverhill on May 1, from 4pm, at the Menta offices.

You can register for any event at business-roadshow.co.uk.

Police praised in dealing with domestic abuse

VICTIMS of domestic abuse in Suffolk can have confidence in the service they receive from police, according to a report by the police watchdog.

A national review by Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary (HMIC) in has found the overall response to domestic abuse was not good enough but Suffolk was one of the few forces providing "a good service to victims".

In the 12 months up to August 2013, there were 2,861 domestic abuse related crimes in Suffolk which accounted for 7 per cent of all crime in the county.

During this period, 75 arrests were made for every

100 domestic abuse crimes compared to figures nationally of between 45 and 90.

Assistant Chief Constable David Skevington said: "Public confidence in policing is vitally important and to receive a report that states that the public should be confident in the way that Suffolk police deal with domestic abuse is a credit to our staff and their hard work and commitment to deliver the best service and keeping people in Suffolk safe. Whilst we are pleased with the HMIC's findings we continuously look at how we can improve the service we provide and how we build the confidence of those suffering abuse to come forward and speak to us."

HMIC recommended a number of improvements for the force, including an increase in the number of independent domestic abuse advisors (IDVAs).

Suffolk Police and Crime Commissioner Tim Passmore said: "The extent and nature of domestic abuse in the county really shocks me, it is a huge problem but one I am determined to address."

To report domestic abuse call police on 101 or 999 or call the national helpline 0800 200 247.

Rachel
Joyce

WHEN we speak, Rachel Joyce is on a train, dipping in and out of signal, writes Ella Walker.

As The Unlikely Pilgrimage of Harold Fry author tries to list what she grew up reading, her voice sputtering and fizzing through static, we decide to give up, resorting to email instead.

It's a shame, but I couldn't make her shout down a carriage, and in some ways, writing her answers seems more apt for a novelist who considers herself 'pretty quiet and reclusive' these days.

Strangely, Joyce's career actually began on stage, first at RADA, and then with the RSC where she won a Time Out Actress of the Year award for playing Nora in Ibsen's A Doll's House, before giving it up to concentrate on writing radio plays and raising a family (her husband, four children and a gaggle of chickens).

"It suits me better to write," she says, explaining how she doesn't really long for her thespian days. "And actually, I am using the same parts of myself when I write – I take what I know, what I feel, and I jump from there into my imagination."

So far, her imagination has brought us the Man Booker long-listed Harold Fry and 2013's critically acclaimed Perfect, both of which she is due to discuss at this spring's Cambridge Literary Festival, alongside Cambridgeshire author Jill Dawson (Fred and Edie, The Tell-Tale Heart).

Now based in Gloucestershire, Joyce has written more than 20 plays for BBC Radio 4 and, alongside a Tinniswood Award for best radio play in 2007, has also crammed in adaptations for the Classic Series and Woman's Hour.

This is how The Unlikely Pilgrimage of Harold Fry, her debut novel, started out, as a radio play Joyce wrote 'for my dad when he was dying of cancer'.

If you don't have a well-worn, twice or triple-read copy of your own, it tells the tale of retiree Harold Fry who, emotionally choked, sets out to post a letter to an old friend, Queenie Hennessey, who is dying. Instead of posting his letter in the box at the end of his road, Harold finds himself walking past it, until he realises he needs, for his own sake, to deliver that letter to Queenie personally. So begins a mammoth walk to Berwick-upon-Tweed.

Full of kindness and tenderness, Harold's memories and regrets sift through his mind as he walks, leaving you a blurry but smiling mess as you read.

"In my grief, I think I needed to construct a world in which a dying woman might be saved," says Joyce. "But I also wanted to celebrate the ordinary."

For several years Harold Fry was squirreled away, increasingly nudging at Joyce to take it further, before she signed up to a Faber Academy fiction writing course in order to transform it from play to fully formed novel.

Does she find writing a book tougher than constructing a radio play? "Both present challenges, but I am very glad I have spent so many years writing radio drama," she says. "It is a fantastic discipline and has taught me a lot about structure, pace and how to use dialogue."

The transformation was obviously a success and, despite being beaten in the Man Booker race by the unbeatable Hilary Mantel, Harold Fry became an international bestseller and book club staple. Why does she think it struck such a chord with readers? "People ask me this question a lot," Joyce muses. "And the truth is that I don't know. I don't really even want to know. Because I'd rather stay inside my writing, than jump outside it."

A habitual avoider of reviews, she is understandably pleased with how both Harold Fry and Perfect have been received (understatedly calling the Man Booker nomination 'exciting and completely unexpected'), but is intent on knocking down to the writing, and not fussing with what people think and expect of her.

Set in the summer of 1972, Perfect follows 11-year-old Byron Hemmingway and his friend James who is convinced two seconds have been added into the fabric of time. The consequences could be devastating for Byron's mother, but for present day Jim, who cleans café tables and struggles to control his OCD, those life-changing two seconds mean something else entirely...

Noting how much darker than Harold Fry Perfect is, "We run our lives according to the rule of time. We assume everything is going forwards and at a regular speed," says Joyce. "I think it's interesting sometimes to wobble those rules. But the book is really about the fact that the course of a life can change in a matter of seconds."

She had already begun writing Perfect before Harold Fry was published and, when asked if she felt under pressure to produce a second novel as equally wowing as the first, notes: "I tend to run away to my writing shed and get lost in the story that I am telling. I try very hard not to judge it."

"I did everything I could do for those stories and then I let them go. They stand a little apart from me now. They are what they are."

Her own 'to read' list is currently quite sparse (a rare finding in an author). Aside from Mrs Hemmingway by Naomi Wood, which is on her bedside table, Joyce admits: "I find it difficult to read fiction when I am finishing a book (and I am) because I like to enter another world when I read."

"That's not a good idea when you have a story of your own, and characters of your own, all shouting for some kind of resolution."

Cambridge Literary Festival highlights

Melvyn Bragg

■ Melvyn Bragg, Union Chamber, Friday, April 4, at 2.30pm. Tickets £9-£11 from (01223) 300085 / addticketing.com

A GIANT in the world of British arts and culture, Melvyn Bragg is visiting Cambridge to discuss his jam-packed career and latest novel, Grace and Mary.

Born in Wigton, Cumbria, the 74-year-old writer and broadcaster started out at Oxford University before hauling himself into the media circuit as a general trainee at the BBC.

Within three years he was editing BBC2's first ever arts programme, New Release. He also writes novels and radio plays, and is best known for editing and presenting The South Bank Show for 33 years.

He now hosts In Our Time on BBC Radio 4 – a panel show that gets to the nitty-gritty of culture, science and ideas.

Friends with Tony Blair, he has also won a slew of awards, for his novels from The Soldier's Return (WH Smith Award) to Without a City Wall (the John Llewellyn Rhys Prize). He has also appeared on the Man Booker shortlist three times – the man is a machine.

He plans to discuss Grace and Mary, a touching story wracked with the anguish of dementia. In it, 72-year-old John grows closer to his 91-year-old mother as she remembers her own mother, her mind and memories slowly but surely succumbing to the disease.

THE outstanding Jim Crace has announced that his latest novel, Harvest, which was shortlisted for the 2013 Man Booker, is also his last.

"A spell-binding evocation of rural England" in the pre-industrial age, he's going to have to answer to The New Statesman's assistant editor, Michael Prodger, on why he is giving up a career that has also brought us Quarantine, Being Dead and The Pesthouse.

The 68-year-old St Alban's-born writer started his career developing educational programmes for the BBC and as a national freelance journalist – until a falling out over "political interference" with The Sunday Times.

● Jim Crace, Divinity School Lecture Hall, Saturday, April 5, at 4pm.

■ Highly acclaimed jazz saxophonist HANNAH HORTON is joined by her Quartet and QUENTIN COLLINS tomorrow, Friday 4 April, for The All That Jazz Club at 8pm. Quentin is one of Europe's most-in-demand jazz musicians, working with Jean Toussaint, Stan Tracey, Norma Winstone, and John Surman among others. Also an in-demand session musician, he has worked with US3, Jocelyn Brown, Omar, Basement Jaxx and Lulu to name but a few.

■ PROFESSOR SLINN, a popular guest speaker for the Haverhill Art Group will return to the Arts Centre on Wednesday 9 April at 7.30pm to talk about his own work and influences.

■ Scamp Theatre and Watford Palace Theatre bring PIRATE GRAN, based on the books by Geraldine Durrant and Rose Forshall to us on Thursday 10 April at 2pm and it's brim-full of fun for seafaring children aged 3+ and their shipmates of all ages. Meet Gran. She bakes. She knits. You'd never guess she was a Pirate! Pirating isn't the life for everyone, but Gran says if you don't mind sleeping in a hammock and being called Scary Mary, then it's a career more girls should think about. With a pet crocodile under her bed, a wicked sense of humour and a whole raft of adventures under her belt – time with Gran is never dull! Gran isn't scared of anything. Not even monsters. And then there's Grandpa ...

CELEBRATION OF ANGER on Friday 11 April at 8pm. Jo's always wondered why anger is seen as such a bad thing. When life presents such irritations as vacuous celebrities, endless TV quiz shows, emotionally 'challenged' men and drunken girlfriends who always pick the wrong partner, surely having a good rant – and a good laugh – is the only sensible reaction? Enjoy your anger. Star of Radio 4's hugely popular Jo Caulfield's Speakeasy, and seen on Michael McIntyre's Comedy Roadshow, Mock The Week, Have I Got News For You, Never Mind The Buzzcocks and The Apprentice: You're Fired, Jo promises a fantastic night out for everyone. No matter how angry you might be.

film of the week

DIVERGENT (12A, 139 mins)

ADAPTED from the opening book of Veronica Roth's best-selling trilogy for young adults, Divergent is a rite of passage story baked to a similar recipe as The Hunger Games.

Neil Burger's film separates a gung-ho heroine from the people she loves and compels her to undergo a series of gruelling challenges, killing fellow teenagers to ensure her survival.

Spookily, the running time of the two films is almost identical, although this dystopian fantasy earns its 12A certificate without spilling as much innocent blood.

Shailene Woodley, who was deservedly nominated for a Golden Globe opposite George Clooney in The Descendants, is perfectly cast as the teenage protagonist, who leads the rebellion against a corrupt system. She is the beating heart of the sickly engineered film and effortlessly tugs heartstrings in pivotal scenes of loss.

A slow-burning romantic subplot ensures the target audience will swoon as the heroine suffers exquisite pangs of first love, while a tub-thumping denouement sets the scene for the next two instalments, Insurgent and Allegiant, released in 2015 and 2016 respectively.

Futuristic Chicago is divided into five factions – Abnegation, Amity, Candor, Dauntless and Erudite – which exemplify positive aspects of the human personality: selflessness, cordiality, honesty, intelligence and courage.

On a specific day each year, 16-year-olds undergo an aptitude test that reveals their destiny.

Beatrice Prior (Shailene Woodley) is poised to take that test. She lives in Abnegation with her brother Caleb (Ansel Elgort) and parents Andrew (Tony Goldwyn) and Natalie (Ashley Judd) but questions where her future lies.

"Everyone knows where they belong, except for me..." she laments in voiceover.

The results of Beatrice's test are inconclusive and Tori (Maggie Q), who administers the procedure behind closed doors, tells the 16-year-old that she is a Divergent.

Beatrice must hide her status because Divergents threaten the finely-balanced system and are being hunted by Jeanine Matthews (Kate Winslet), strident leader of Erudite.

Divergent feels a smidgen light on exposition and character development but Woodley is terrific and she catalyses smouldering on-screen chemistry with James.

Winslet sinks her pearly whites into her first villainous role, and director Burger obscures the actress's baby bump – she was five months pregnant during filming – with an array of laptops and folders that becoming a running joke by the end credits.

Alan gets his hands dirty

TV gardening guru Alan Titchmarsh is looking forward to getting his hands dirty at RHS Chelsea Flower Show this year.

Instead of wearing a sharp suit to present the show, for the first time in 30 years, he will be wearing a pair of gloves and designing a garden instead.

Obviously, there's a substantial chance it will be rather good, too – not only is Titchmarsh one of the country's best-known gardening presenters, but back in 1985, when Titchmarsh last designed a garden at the prestigious Chelsea, he was awarded an RHS Gold Medal for his Country Kitchen garden.

He will also join forces with another RHS Chelsea Flower Show Gold Medal winner, Kate Gould, to create From The Moors To The Sea – a celebration of 50 years of the RHS Britain in Bloom campaign, to represent how 300,000 volunteers help to make Britain bloom and explore Alan's relationship with horticulture through his life.

"It's 50 years since I started work as an apprentice, so I thought I could either do a 1960s-style garden through to the 21st century, but the 60s were a bit dull, all rose beds and lawns. So I thought, why don't I demonstrate where I first started, which was the Yorkshire moors, up to where I garden now, on the coast on the Isle of Wight?

"So we will be sloping from moorland at the back, with dry stone walls, coming down to a seaside garden at the front. It's 50 years of 'my journey', to use the X Factor phrase.

"It's also showing the British Isles and its variety. Being a cool temperate set of islands, the range we can grow is incredibly wide and this will show the richness of the British Isles."

He'll be featuring pines, heathers and birches from the moorland, through wild flowers, down to seaside plants including echiums and cabbage palms. It will be a 10m by 15m microcosm of British gardens and landscapes.

It sounds great, but how does Titchmarsh feel about not presenting the Chelsea coverage for the first time in 30 years?

Last year Titchmarsh announced he was stepping down from the BBC's coverage of

by Hannah Stephenson

Chelsea after programme-makers offered him a more 'limited' role, although he remains RHS vice president and first ambassador.

"[I feel] wonderful," he insists. "I'm putting a show garden together – I've done it before and I love doing it. It's technically an exhibit but will look like a show garden. It's not being judged but the same criteria and standard of finish will have to be there."

"I've moved on," he continues. "There was disappointment but it's gone, I'm over it. There's no point in dwelling on things."

It's all part of a new beginning for Titchmarsh, who began his career as that apprentice for Ilkley Council, before becoming the face of BBC2's Gardeners' World for six years until 2002. He also presented Ground Force, How To Be A Gardener and several natural history series, and has written a number of bestselling novels and has a regular slot on Classic FM.

He's had eight years presenting an afternoon chat show too, though this is also ending after its last run in autumn.

"It's better to stop doing something when you're still regarded as being successful, while people are still watching, rather than it going off the boil. It will be my 15th series in the autumn, that's eight years.

"It's every day. Jonathan Ross and Graham Norton do one a week. I do five. I thought, let's stop while it's doing well."

He's certainly got enough else to keep him occupied too, with forthcoming TV projects including a two-parter about the gardens of Buckingham Palace, out in December, a new series of Love Your Garden in the summer and a series called Britain's Best Gardens for ITV, in which he explores 30 of Britain's best domestic gardens.

Vindis Skoda is so delighted with top fleet award in UK

ŠKODA UK took time out last week to reward the fantastic contribution of its retailer network at the ŠKODA Retailer of the Year Awards in Edinburgh – with Vindis Skoda taking the "Fleet Sales" award.

The annual ceremony at the Edinburgh International Conference Centre on March 21 recognised the achievements of the very best of the vehicle manufacturer's 134 UK retailers across 11 different categories.

Alasdair Stewart, brand director, ŠKODA UK, said: "I would like to congratulate the winners on their awards, and thank all of the retailers for their continued hard work and dedication. I'm confident that, together, we can make 2014 another record-breaking year.

"The number of cars sold in the UK is rapidly increasing every year and we are delighted to be setting new records. Sales of new ŠKODA vehicles reached a very impressive 66,000 units in 2013, compared to 53,200 for the previous 12 months, a significant 24 per cent increase. This is of course testament to the outstanding work of our retailers up and down the country."

As well as the prestigious Retailer of the Year awards, prizes were presented for new vehicle and fleet sales, customer satisfaction and aftersales performance.

Matthew Wootton, head of business at Vindis ŠKODA Cambridge, said: "I am delighted that Vindis ŠKODA Cambridge has been acknowledged by ŠKODA as the Fleet Sales Retailer of the Year for 2014. We have put a lot of work into ensuring that customers across all areas of our business receive the same high level of customer experience and it is very rewarding for me and my team that our performance in the fleet market has been recognised with this award."

Call Vindis ŠKODA on (01223) 581583 or visit them at 59 Cowley Road, Cambridge CB4 0DN.

Volkswagen's latest Polo is on way tagged from £11,000

VOLKSWAGEN has announced pricing for the new Polo, starting from £11,100. The new Polo, which is scheduled for first deliveries in July, brings with it a range of new, more efficient engines as well as technology that advances safety, practicality and comfort.

The Polo now features a range of new EU6-compliant engines offering fuel efficiency improvements of up to 23 per cent over the old units. Petrol options are two three-cylinder 1.0-litre MPI units with 60 or 75PS; two 1.2-litre four-cylinder TSI engines with 90 or 110 PS and a 1.4-litre TSI engine with cylinder deactivation (ACT), with power increased by 10PS to 150PS. Diesel options are two new three-cylinder 1.4-litre TDI engines, with 75 and 90PS.

As well as ESC electronic stability control, all new Polos are equipped

ON THE WAY: The new Polo, which is available to order from April 23, is now even more fuel-efficient with Hill Hold and an Automatic Post-Collision Braking System which brakes the vehicle after a collision to reduce kinetic energy significantly, thereby minimising the chance or consequences of a second impact.

The new Polo is available to order from April 23.

Customer Service, Sales & Training Advisor

Are you as passionate about customer service as you are about beauty?
If you are, Essential Nails want to hear from you.

As leaders in the training and nail product industry, we understand the importance of providing the best customer support and service. Due to expansion and a new product launch; we are looking for two key people to join our creative and energetic team, ready to engage with potential students, graduates, customers and business owners via telephone, livechat on-line, email and all social media channels promptly. This is a multi-skilled role; you will need to respond to enquiries quickly and also be pro active in driving conversations with customers, be interested to understand their needs and correctly identifying the training and products they require to help them make their aspirations a reality.

You need to be a people person; with a smile in your voice, have previously worked in a customer service role, be up to speed with social media and be happy to have an input into content for our social media channels. You must be comfortable with using a CRM and order processing system, be flexible on working office based and remotely and understand the importance of customer relationships in helping the company reach its targets.

Beauty or Nail skills would be an advantage but not a necessity, as we will want you to complete our training to fully understand the product.

This is a fulltime role with a home grown company that's on the move!

Salary £17,000 OTE £23,000

Please send CV to: Jax Adkin Essential Nails, Manor Road, Haverhill, CB9 0EP • jax@essentialnails.com

Greygoose delight at Rovers scorers

DEAN Greygoose was pleased to see the goals shared around as Haverhill Rovers secured a 4-2 victory away to Ely in the Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division.

Rovers had taken the lead through Dan Jeffrey, but Tyler Phillips' effort and an own goal saw struggling Ely take a 2-1 lead in the first half.

However, Sam Holmes levelled for Haverhill two minutes before the break and second half goals from Dan Cornwell and Andrew Ofosu clinched victory.

"It shows the strength of the squad because everyone is contributing," said Greygoose.

"There's a not a lot for us to play for now, but everyone is competing for places and we're looking towards next season.

"It's the third game in a row I've been able to name the same starting 11 and the fourth game in a row we haven't had anyone booked."

It was Rovers' third win in succession and they host Diss Town this Saturday in the first of three consecutive home games.

In the First Division, Lee Salmons hit a debut hat-trick to earn Haverhill Borough a 3-0 win at home to Cornard United.

It took just 50 seconds for Salmons to open the scoring with his first touch in a Borough shirt and he headed home the second just one minute later.

Salmons got both his and Borough's third on the half hour, but was forced to depart before the interval after suffering an ankle injury.

Ryan Weaver, Luke Strutton and John Camfield all went close in the second half, yet the home side could not add to their tally.

Borough followed that up with a 2-0 win over Sudbury reserves on Wednesday evening.

Owen Longley fired them ahead after 20 minutes and from that point on they were in complete control.

Sudbury's best chance came when they hit the post, but Martin Farrant made sure of victory five minutes from time with a finish from close range.

Borough travel to Downham Town on Saturday, and are also offering free entry to next Wednesday's home game with March Town United, which kicks off at 7.45pm at the New Croft.

New fight event

A FIGHT night featuring boxing and Thai boxing is being held at Haverhill Leisure Centre next month.

Organised by former ISKA British champion Matt Fitch and fellow Thai boxer Neil Spokes, the event on May 10 will help to raise funds for the Teenage Cancer Trust.

Haverhill fighters Carl Ledger, Luke Monks, Mehmet Kucukarslan and Jake Bachelor are among those who will be in action on the 12-bout bill.

Tickets cost £30 seated, £25 standing and are available from the leisure centre or by calling 07931 041204.

Hat-trick: Little Legends' Louie Bampton.

Bampton treble fires Little Legends to Elsenham win

LOUIE Bampton's hat-trick helped Little Legends to a 3-2 victory over Elsenham in Cambridgeshire Mini Soccer League 10B.

Elsenham had taken the lead, but Bampton struck three times and Billy Hunt and Mitchell Cozzi both hit the post before the home side pulled one back late on.

In the Cambridge & District Colts League, Haverhill Rovers drew 3-3 with Waterbeach in 14D.

Shane Gambin and Brandon McKay put Haverhill 2-0 up at half time, but three goals from Waterbeach soon after the restart saw them lead.

However, McKay's second secured a point for Rovers.
